Forsyth County Public Library (FCPL) is pleased to be hosting a Local Author Book Fair on Saturday, October 12, 2019 from 11 am - 2 pm. There are no fees associated with participating in this event, but space is limited. Registration and participation will be on a first come basis for eligible participants.

Registrants must be a current resident of North Carolina and must have written and published or self-published their work(s) within the past 5 years. Registrants are required to donate a copy of their work(s) to the Library for evaluation as part of the registration process if the Library does not already own a copy. Books received become the property of the Library and will not be returned.

Authors selected for participation will be given chairs and table space to display and sell their books, and the Library will advertise the event to the public. Authors will be responsible for selling their own books, creating their own displays, and providing their own information to the public at the event. Authors may also be asked to do a short book talk or speak about their writing process during this time. This is also an opportunity to network with other local authors.

Applications will be accepted until the event is full. Registrants will be notified as soon as possible of the status of their participation.

By submitting your application/books, you agree to the terms and conditions outlined above.
